

note to assert the rights of Americans in Siberia. The note expresses the belief that Japan regards the incident in the same light as the United States does and will take all proper steps. The note implies that the United States considers Japanese soldiers unjustified in stopping Americans in Vladivostok, as Lieutenant Langdon was stopped, and that the Japanese have no right to interfere with Americans going about their proper business in Siberia.

The American protest, however, is very carefully worded so as to avoid all ill feeling.

NEED OF SETTLEMENT
San Francisco, Jan. 16.—The killing of Lieutenant Langdon at Vladivostok and the agitation in several States which are in favor of legislation to exclude Orientals have laid emphasis during the last week on the urgency of an early treaty settlement between Japan and the United States.

According to a story printed here today, which is attributed to several army and navy officers who have just arrived from Manila, Japanese soldiers attacked five American sailors in Vladivostok last September, and fired fifteen shots at them, forcing the Americans to flee to their ships. They declared that the incident was not reported except to Washington, in consequence of which it is alleged the officers return home with particulars.

TOWN STRONGLY PATROLLED
Vladivostok, Jan. 15.—Considerable secrecy surrounds the investigation which is proceeding of the shooting of Lieutenant Langdon. The Japanese-American parties continue.

Today, owing to the fact that American sailors always go ashore on Saturdays, the Japanese are strongly patrolling the town.

The Russian newspapers are publishing untrue stories to the effect that there is invariably American-Japanese conflict at the American Consulate every day, where secret conferences are being held. Consul MacGowan, interviewed by a Kokusai representative, said there was no ground whatever for such statements.

Australia Shipping Strike Is Creating Serious Condition

(Reuter's Service)
London, January 22.—The Times Melbourne correspondent telegraphs: "Great efforts are being made to secure a settlement of the shipping strike, owing to widespread unemployment, aggravated by increasing taxation, said to be due to the reckless, spendthrift policy of the State Governments, which is creating apprehension."

Note:—A Reuter telegram from Melbourne dated January 10, reported that the shipping strike had caused a stoppage of all trains and tramcars and that some 20,000 persons were already out of work in Melbourne alone, and many others elsewhere, owing to the lack of coal.

Jingoes Discredited By Harding, View Taken By Writer

(Reuter's Service)
London, January 22.—The Times this morning publishes a letter from Mr. Edward Bell, London correspondent of the Chicago Daily News, and one of the most authoritative American writers on the Anglo-American relations, in which he draws attention to British and American anxieties with regard to the future relations of the two countries.

He instances the 'big navy talk, oil talk, and cables talk,' and says:

"In America the political bantam-weights often strip under a lamp and minatory language has been conspicuous," but he points out that President-Elect Harding, who was elected on a world-peace platform, is now carrying out his pledges, "resolutely discountenancing Chauvinists, Jingoes, Sinn Feiners and Germanists, and urging the God-imposed duties of the English-speaking peoples of restraint, tolerance and justice."

Warwick Company

The Warwick Comedy Company open here Wednesday week with a line repertoire of comedies. The opening play will be that recent St. James' success "Uncle Ned," by Douglas Murray. Uncle Ned is the most charming personality and the whole play is one long ripple of laughter and delicious sentiment.

It is particularly interesting to hear that we shall have an opportunity of seeing Mr. Edgar Warwick himself, in the title role of "Uncle Ned." It is a part that suits his breezy personality, and Mr. Warwick has that happy knack of tickling our risible faculties, so he has plenty of opportunity in the guise of Uncle Ned.

NEW SYNAGOGUE IS CONSECRATED; RABBI INSTALLED

The consecration of the new synagogue, "Ohe! Rachel," and the installation of Rabbi Hirsch took place Sunday afternoon when an impressive service was held under the direction of Rabbi Hirsch.

The Rabbi made a stirring appeal to the Jewish community of the city and compared the work of the Rabbi of the past with the Rabbi of today.

In part Rabbi Hirsch said: There was a time when a Rabbi had no declaration of policy to make to his community. His scope was recognized and his field of action well understood. He was the repository of Jewish knowledge, the standard bearer of tradition, the guardian and exponent of Israel's Law. The community knew what to expect from his Rabbi, and the Rabbi knew what he owed to his community. Times have changed. Religion is now in a state of flux, and congregation and Rabbi alike often lose their bearings.

NO NEW JUDAISM
Our ancient faith is being shorn of its traditional beauties and deprived of its inborn vigor. Time-worn customs that strengthened and sweetened the life of the Jew are replaced by innovations whose only recommendation is their novelty, while our suffering of the past and our hope for the future are reduced to a mere ethnological definition. Let me say at the outset that I have no new Judaism to teach, no new revelations to make, no new doctrines to promulgate. For me there is but one Judaism, that which was tested by time and hallowed by tradition, the Judaism that saturated the life of the Jew with spirituality, that gave him enduring courage and invincible faith.

URGES CO-OPERATION
The difficulties we have to encounter in this remote part of the world are of such magnitude that unless our efforts are proportionate we shall achieve little. We shall need much generosity of heart. We shall need a flowing, unstinted liberality. And we shall need something of that religious enthusiasm which goes like a sacred contagion from one to another. Only through united efforts and willing co-operation can we hope to surmount the many obstacles that lie in our way and crown our work with success.

When I work among you, let me feel that I work among people who are united with me in a desire to uphold the banner of Judaism, to maintain on a high level the dignity of our community and to rear a generation of erect and stable Jews, men in whom the sparkle of innocence will not be dimmed, and the laughter of youth not be made sad by vice and corruption, men who have an abundance of self-respect and moral courage, who can battle for the right and honor of their people, and not be afraid to stand in a minority when in the right.

Master Wizard To Give Show At Lyceum Here

Mr. Reginald Kay's "Magical Matinee" on Saturday next at the Lyceum theater should prove a great treat to all lovers of the art of illusion.

Mr. Kay is undoubtedly the finest sleight-of-hand performer that Shanghai has seen. His act in "Alladin" was produced in four weeks especially for the pantomime but he has a number of illusions to show on Saturday which have taken years to perfect.

The audience will actually take part in some of the experiments. Mr. Kay has a charming manner with children and his way of addressing an audience is admirable. It is in his patter, most adjunct to a conjurer, and his close sleight-of-hand work with his audience all around him that excels.

We have had the pleasure of seeing Mr. Kay being challenged to produce specified effects with a borrowed pack of cards and he has never failed. Indeed, in some cases, he was able to elaborate the effects described, but he believes in reserving his card work for male audiences only.

He was attacked by the "Magic" germ about 16 years ago and has been trying to shake off the "Demon" ever since but he is now convinced that it has reached the chronic stage.

In the war he had command, as acting major, of a seige battery, and his knowledge of "Magic" proved useful when special ideas in camouflage were required.

He managed to give many entertainments in the field although his stock in hand was limited to gun stoves and a pack of cards.

His matinee next Saturday afternoon is certain to be a great attraction to the elders as well as for the youngsters.

AT THE ASTOR HOUSE

Influenza

Tests by the best known bacteriologists in Britain have proved that a teaspoonful of Milton in a tumbler of water (cold, tepid, or warm) will annihilate the Influenza germ at once.

Don't get Influenza
You can avoid it—easily—simply. The germ of Influenza enters the body only through the nose or throat—in no other way. It lodges in the nostrils or the mouth and is swallowed or inhaled into the system.

The Chief Precaution
Add a teaspoonful of MILTON to a tumbler of water (tepid or cold). Use this as a mouth-wash and gargle, and spray some of the mixture up the nostrils. Do this two or three times daily, particularly before breakfast and before meals. Quite simple and not unpleasant, but it keeps Influenza away.

Thousands of people have found complete immunity from "Flu" by using MILTON, even when surrounded by infection. Read the surprising facts in the little panel at foot.

SOLD IN 2 SIZES—8 OUNCES AND 20 OUNCES—EACH MAKES GALLONS. Take MILTON in your home. Get it of your Chemist or Grocer. If he does not stock MILTON, write Probst, Hambury & Co. Ltd., 10 Nanking Road, Shanghai.

A Startling Fact
In a department of the Army Sorting Office at the London General Post Office last winter they were losing checks on the rate of 1000 to every day from Influenza. At the worst stage of the epidemic the Q. M. S. head of MILTON, bought a bottle, was ordered a "sneezing" card. The result startled him and the check. Daily, from then on, each check passed red-inked with MILTON, and from the first the checks lost a single case of Influenza developed, not one single loss from "Flu" occurred in the staff. Ask the Q. M. S. about it.

And Another
In several Lancashire cotton mills the spread of Influenza during the epidemic last winter, mixing it with the water that is usually sprayed by housewives through the workrooms to keep the damp enough for spinning. The result arrested the movements. Influenza, "Imported" from every mill where Milton was used.

Mixed Court Jottings

For impersonating a Municipal Revenue officer and extorting money from the keepers of a number of the brothels which were selected for closing at the recent Municipal drawing a Chinese teacher was sentenced to a year's imprisonment by the Mixed Court yesterday. When arrested he was found to be in possession of a complete list of the drawn brothels and it was shown in the evidence that he had visited over sixty of these and had obtained money from at least five of these, the amounts ranging from $2 to $20. He went to the places and informed the inmates that they must have their photographs taken, or, in lieu of that, must pay him a fee. The accused denied the charge and said that he was a newspaper man and wished the inmates of the brothels to let him photograph them. The money, he said, had been given him as presents.

The case in which a Chinese shopkeeper named Deung Men-chi is charged with attempting to smuggle rice to Hongkong came up for hearing again in the Mixed Court yesterday and was remanded for another week.

A lodging house keeper was fined $20 yesterday for allowing

United Services Association Holds Its Annual Meeting

The United Services Association held its annual meeting at the Palace Hotel last evening when the Committee for the coming year was elected and the work of the past twelve months was reviewed.

Colonel R. Marr-Johnson, C.M.G., D.S.O., presided over the meeting, which was well attended, those present including a number of lady members. Colonel Johnson began by recording the Association's thanks to those who have made donations to the funds during the past year. The largest single donation, he said, was £15,000, given by an anonymous benefactor. He spoke particularly of the frequent aid given by the Shanghai Race Club, the last donation from which, amounting to £5,000, came at a particularly opportune time, when calls for loans were heavy.

There had been many calls for employment, the chairman said, the honorary secretary receiving as many as five applications a day. These cases were gone into carefully and a list of the applicants was sent around to the British Hong Kong fortnight. There have been 52 positions found for ex-service men in this way during the year. Passage to England and Canada has also been secured for several men and for one family.

CALLS FOR POSITIONS
There has been a good deal of temporary relief given in the way of securing board and lodgings for men while they were finding employment and making them small grants. Loans of varying amount have been made to 22 members.

Col. Johnson spoke of the arduous duties falling to the honorary secretary and honorary treasurer and expressed the Association's deep gratitude to Major Manners, Captain McMichael and Captain West, who have successively filled the former post, and Mr. F. H. Geary who has been acting as honorary treasurer. A secretary has had to be engaged to assist the honorary secretary and temporary offices have been engaged.

In welcoming the lady members Colonel Johnson said that he hoped all who are eligible in Shanghai would join the organization. There are now 43 lady members and the total membership is 509, 173 members and 96 life members having joined during the past year.

The summary of assets of the Association shows a total of $49,337.20, including debenture holdings and outstanding loans.

The chairman read two extracts from the Army and Navy Gazette, one being comment by Earl Haig on steps which are being taken toward the founding of an imperial organization intended to unify the ex-service societies of the colonies and dominions, and the other telling of the formation of an inter-Allied organization, with headquarters in Paris.

AID ALSO FOR WOMEN

While the ballots for the committee were being counted the chairman announced in connection with the British Women's War Memorial that a committee of ladies headed by Lady Fraser had raised a sum of money with which to assist any British women who have been affected by the war. Members hearing of cases were asked to communicate with any of this committee, which consists of Lady Fraser and Mesdames Burkill, John Liddell, Stitt, Gauntlett and McMichael. He thanked the committee on behalf of the Association for the work already done, mentioning that it works in connection with the committee of the Association.

The following were elected to serve on the Committee for the ensuing year: Colonel Johnson, Mr. M. Reader Harris, Mr. E. H. McMichael, Captain H. J. West, Captain J. Budgen, Mr. V. D. K. Craddock, Mr. T. Griffin, Mr. F. H. Geary, Dr. E. G. Gauntlett, Mr. J. C. Bostow and Mr. Shlee, honorary secretary.

CHINESE BANKERS DINE MR. GULLAND

Association Entertains I.B.C.
Manager, Who Is Leaving
And His Successor

The Chinese Bankers' Association was host at a banquet given on Sunday night at the Union Club in honor of Mr. H. C. Gulland, manager of the International Banking Corporation who is leaving for the States shortly, and Mr. N. S. Marshall, his successor.

Mr. Y. M. Chien, vice-chairman of the association, presided at the dinner. He said in part:

"Let me cite two instances of what Mr. Gulland has done. The first was at the acute stage of the rubber crisis towards the end of the Manohus. A severe strain was then imposed upon the bankers in Shanghai. Mr. Gulland did his utmost in arresting the panic and preventing its worst consequences."

"Again in the third year of the Republic, the city of Shanghai fell into the hands of the Southern revolutionists. The political disturbances were soon followed by the intervention of the military government in the direction of banking affairs. It is at this time that Mr. Gulland, then a member of the Shanghai Municipal Council, compelled the revolutionists to refrain from interfering in the money market."

In reply, Mr. Gulland stated that he regretted very much to part with so many friends in China. Mr. Marshall expressed his pleasure in meeting so many Chinese friends whose friendship he would value most highly.

Among those present were Messrs. G. H. Stitt, E. Kann, Sung Han-chang, Li Ming, Chen Shen-ching, Wang Shan-chien, Wang Chi-chien, Chu Loo-e, T. P. Fang, T. D. Zar, C. C. Woo, Yuen-fing Shen, Percy Chu and Yao Chung-sha.

STEVENS WARNS CONSORTIUM FOES HE WILL FIGHT

Consortium plan, for China's good.

No attempt will be made by me to deny all untrue statements upon the subject of the Consortium. That would perhaps make me seem ridiculous. The newspaper clippings and translations tend to show one thing mentioned in my former signed statement, namely, "that there are people who, for reasons they will not openly state, hope to see the Consortium plan fail and who will strive to that end by subtle means." I may have more to say on this subject some day. Meantime, I ask that all anti-consortium statements be taken "with a grain of salt," until much more is known about its aims and methods and the effect its success is likely to have upon the Chinese people.

The anti-consortium propagandists should know that when there is need in the interest of this worthy plan, I can and will fight, and the friends of China will then be with me or I will make their character. The truth will finally prevail.

As already made known to the public at the instance of my predecessor and his associates, no lien upon or control over the Land Tax, in connection with any loan, is contemplated. I was present every moment during the recent Consortium meetings in New York and the entire time occupied in referring to the Land Tax did not exceed five minutes.

Foochow Students Held By City Court May Be Released

The nine Foochow students arrested and kept in custody by the local procurator for alleged implication in the murder of two prominent Foochow merchants during the anti-Japanese boycott movement last year are expected to be released on security, according to word given out by the Chief Procurator, Mr. Tam, yesterday.

Representatives of the National Organisations Union, the Students' Federation, the Street Unions of the French Settlement and the Canton and Fukien Guilds called on Mr. Tam yesterday and held an interview with him.

In the course of the interview, Mr. Tam intimated that a thorough investigation was being conducted and it was not likely that the students would be sent to Foochow for trial. He said that in a few days he expected he would be able to allow the imprisoned students to regain their liberty.

The Chief Procurator also announced to the representatives not to press too hard the charges against the two deputies from Foochow who have appeared in the Mixed Court for alleged abduction. He pointed out that they were themselves ordered to do so by their superiors and that it did not seem very well for officials to be charged in the Mixed Court.

BASEBALL TEAM FROM STANFORD COMING TO EAST

University Of California Baseballers May Make Trip To Shanghai, Too

ARRANGEMENTS PENDING

Palo Alto Nine Plans To Leave For Japan, China And Manila In June

The baseball team of Leland Stanford University is planning a tour of the Far East this summer and desires to arrange games in Shanghai, Tientsin and Peking. If proper arrangements can be made in Japan, China and the Philippines, the University of California baseball nine will also make the two teams hoping to stage exhibition games in the various cities of the Far East.

Graduate Manager Thomas A. Gallagher of the Stanford University Athletic Association wrote to Robert H. Galtner, a Stanford man, and the latter has forwarded a copy of the letter to this office, asking that the matter be taken up by the Shanghai Amateur Baseball Club. The local organization is asked to write direct to Mr. Gallagher.

The following was received yesterday from Mr. Galtner: I am in receipt of the following letter from the Board of Athletic Control, Stanford University, dated December 17, 1920, and have replied advising that you will communicate with them direct.

"Stanford is arranging to send her baseball team on a tour of the Orient the coming summer. We feel that you will be glad to know this and that you will help us all you can in making arrangements. We will probably leave here the latter part of June and will want to stay in the East as long as possible.

"No definite schedule has been arranged but we would like to be sure in advance of as many games as possible. Will you send us the names and addresses of the various teams which would be interested in scheduling contests with us? Better still, will you have them communicate directly with us, stating what guarantee they are able to give us? Any information, average number of spectators, price which can be charged for admission, hotel and local travelling expense, etc., will be appreciated.

"We will have a strong team and will be able to put up a good fight. California (University of) is thinking of making the trip with us and we trust they will as we are natural rivals. What is the possibility of making a success with the two American teams playing exhibition games in the different cities? Would it be a good thing to count on, and would it be possible to secure suitable grounds where we wanted them?"

(Sgd.) Thomas A. Gallagher, Graduate Manager's Office, Stanford University, California.

I am leaving it to Tientsin and Peking to take this matter up officially, with the Infantry and Marines respectively and trust that they and Shanghai will take this up promptly and aggressively with Stanford and make the trip a success in China. Such trips, if they find local favor and prove a stimulus to the game, might easily be made every year or two years.

I am returning to the United States shortly but, if the co-operation locally of a Stanford man would be of assistance, I would suggest that details be taken up, through the Shanghai Baseball Club, with S. A. Bostwick, 13 Kiang Road.

Yours truly,

Robert H. Galtner.

Navy Y.M.C.A. Entertains Nearly 36,000 During 1920; Annual Report Is Issued

Sailors And Men From Merchant Ships Flying Many Flags Reached By Popular Institution On Avenue Edward VII.

Approximately 36,000 men were entertained at the Navy Young Men's Christian Association during the year 1920, according to the annual report of the work of the Association issued by Secretary William R. Durbin yesterday. This marks an increase of 26 percent over the year 1919 and is one example of the strides which the Association is making. During 1919, meals were served to 16,061 while last year 21,922 meals were served showing an increase of over 35 percent. Lodgings increased from 6,913 in 1919 to 11,922 marking an increase of 70 percent.

Through the continued generosity of the Standard Oil Company of New York the "Y" has been able to use the present quarters for nearly 20 months and will, in all probability, continue to use the building for several months.

The "Y" has opened its doors, not only to American sea men but sailors from the British, Dutch, French and Italian warships.

MR. DURBIN'S REPORT

Mr. Durbin said in part in his 1920 report:

"At least ten percent of our lodgings and meals have been furnished to merchant ship men who have either been sent here by their respective Consulate General, shipping firms, individuals or who have come here of their own choosing. This line of service seems to be within our field and we will continue to serve these men as may be possible.

"Our principal efforts last year were along religious and Social lines. We have been able to interest young men in the new Y. M. C. A. correspondence courses which have the approval of the Army and Navy welfare departments. Our Navy Y.M.C.A. has been allotted $1,000 worth of scholarships and these are being distributed to those who evidence a desire to obtain an education. Athletic work has been chiefly in the promoting of various games between sailors and local organizations and colleges. The men have had the use of our small gymnasium for practice and also the gymnasium and swimming pool of the large City Y. M. C. A. at stated hours.

"Our efforts are not entirely confined to Shanghai. We have a very thriving Navy Y. M. C. A. at Hankow admirably located on the Bund. Men from warships of different nationalities have liberally patronized the Navy "Y" at Hankow during 1920.

THANKS ORGANISATIONS
"In connection with our Religious services and entertainments we wish to heartily thank many who have given of their time to serve. We are under special obligations to members of the Missionary community, the National Committee Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A., the City Y. M. C. A., the Shanghai American School and to the Woman's Overseas League, recently organized. We would thank many kind friends of the Y.M.C.A. who at Soochow and Hangchow have entertained numbers of sailors on excursions.

We are grateful to the officers

Sporting Editor, THE CHINA PRESS
Dear Sir.—You will pardon me, but I am taking the liberty of sending you herewith one pair of black silk socks, with garters attached. Knowing your popularity among the local athletes I am sure you can assist me in getting these socks back to their owner.

Unconsciously I had put these on in the dressing room of the Rowing Club last Saturday evening after our game with the Shanghai American School, and when reaching home found my own pair in my suitcase. I sincerely apologise to the chap who had to go home without socks, and I should not forgive myself if I spoiled the rest of his evening. Of course, if the socks were not too big for me, I would not put you to this trouble, so if you can return them to the owner, your kindness will be appreciated by both sides. With many thanks, I remain,

We would also acknowledge obligation to the Shanghai Municipal Council for park space allotment and for special rates at the Town Hall.

"For contributions of money we are indebted to the American Woman's Club, the American Company of S.V.C., to the Dutch Colony and to various firms and individuals who have also contributed for specific objects. During the year we made frequent public appeals for books and magazines both for service men and prisoners of war. We received liberal response from people of different nationalities. O. L. Ibert Is New Member Of Executive Body; Other Five Are Re-elected

At the annual meeting of the Shanghai Rifle Association, which was held yesterday at the Town Hall, the committee for 1921 was elected and is composed of Dr. S. A. Ransom, and Messrs. W. T. Rose, K. D. Chen, R. I. Ito, H. W. Lambert and O. L. Ibert. Mr. A. M. Collaco, who has served for years as secretary and treasurer of the association, was re-elected again at the meeting over which Lt. Col. T. E. Trueman, O.B.E., presided.

As the year's report and statement of accounts had been in the hands of the members of the association for some days they were not read at the meeting, but comment was made on the completeness of this report, giving as it does in detail the results of all the association's competitions in the past year. At the close of 1920 the association had a membership of 239 of which 14 are life members and 32 absent members.

MR. TRUEMAN THANKED

According to the financial statement the association's income for the year was $8,053.71 with expenditures $1,699.53 and funds on hand at the end of the year $6,354.18. The excess of income over expenditure for the year amounted to $872.10, as the fund at the beginning of the year was $5,482.08.

In a brief address the Chairman expressed appreciation of the work done by the outgoing committee and he dwelt at some length on the efficiency with which Mr. Collaco has performed the duties of secretary and treasurer. As chairman of last year's committee Doctor Ransom expressed the thanks of the association to Colonel Trueman for his continued interest in the work of the association.

Join League U. S. Is Urged By Japanese

The Council and Assembly, representatives of the member states have invariably evinced a willingness to put forth their efforts for the cause of the League, instead of confining their attention to the interests of the individual nations they represented. It is principally due to the spirit of concert and harmony manifested on these occasions that the League now gives fair promise of life and development.

"In regard to the reduction of armaments provided for in the Peace Treaty, the Military Commission of the League, since its organization last May, has been making investigations into the practical phase of the question. As a matter of principle, disarmament is to be welcomed for the general welfare of the human race, and the Japanese Government are paying special attention to the question. The matter, however, has very important and complex bearings for each nation, and it is to be apprehended that realization of this end may be found impossible unless all nations act with one accord and in good faith.

INTERNATIONAL COURT

"The project of an International Court of Justice was resolved upon by both the Council and the Assembly, chiefly on the basis of the original draft adopted by the Conference of International Jurists held last year at the Hague. The plan is now being submitted to the several governments for approval, and the Court is expected to be established at no distant date. The passing of this resolution is the most important of the results achieved at the first session of the League Assembly. That international conflicts should, to a great degree as possible, be settled by peaceful means is, of course, highly desirable, and the decision to establish an international court for that end is most welcome.

TALK OF AMENDING PACT

"The questions of amending the League Covenant, of the economic blockade as the principal means of punishment by the League, and of the mandates to the exercised on behalf of the League, have each been assigned to expert commissions which have been appointed as auxiliary organs of the League Council.

"The field of activities of the League will thus gradually be enlarged with time. Before passing on to another theme, I may be permitted to state that the aim of the League of World Peace and the promoting of international co-operation is quite consistent with the policy followed throughout by Japan, and that it is her intention, as one of the five great nations, invariably to make endeavors, in hearty co-operation with the other Powers, for the attainment of that lofty aim of the League.

MANDATES ARE POINT

"The next question, of mandates, calls for a few words. Under the Peace Treaty, which is based on the principle of non-annexation, the former German possessions in Africa and the South Pacific, together with the territories in Asia which belonged to the former Turkish Empire, have been placed under administration by mandate. So far as the former German possessions are concerned, the mandates and their assigned territories were decided upon by the Supreme Council on May 7 last year. On that occasion, the whole group of former German islands lying north of the Equator was assigned to the administration of Japan as mandatory. When, at a later date, the terms and formulae of the mandates came up for determination, a difference of views arose between the Japanese and British Governments on the construction to be placed on the treaty stipulation relating to the terms and formulae of the mandate over the former German colonies lying south of the Equator.

SEEK FURTHER TERMS

"An agreement could not be reached for a long time. A frank exchange of views, however, between the Japanese and British representatives who attended the first session of the League Assembly happily resulted in a composition of the difference.

"While agreeing to the terms of a mandates of the 'C' class, as proposed by Great Britain, the Japanese Government came to a full understanding with the British Government that Japan should make a declaration to the effect that the acquired rights of Japan in the former German colonies south of the Equator should be fully respected, and that their agreement to the terms of the mandate over these islands should not be taken to signify acquiescence on the part of Japan in any discriminatory and unfavorable treatment of her nationals in the said islands.

"Accordingly, when the terms of class 'C' mandates were decided upon on December 17 at a meeting of the eleventh session of the League Council, the Japanese representative made a declaration on the lines of the above understanding and reserved for Japan the right to resume negotiations with the British Government concerning the treatment of Japanese subjects in the territories affected.

"The terms and formulae of the mandates over former German possessions in the South Pacific having now been determined, the Japanese Government are about to enter upon formal control and administration, in pursuance of the terms of the mandate, over the group of islands assigned.

PLAN DEVELOPMENT

"I am happy to be able to state that it is the determination of the Government to spare no efforts in the discharge of this noble mission of civilization in promoting the welfare and development of the people of these territories, and thus fully to deserve the trust that the League members have placed in Japan.

"As to the revision and renewal of the Anglo-Japanese Agreement of Alliance, the Japanese Government has been giving careful consideration to the question, with a view especially to its relation to the Covenant of the League of Nations. They entered into conference with the British Government, and a frank exchange of views on this matter took place both in London and Tokyo.

"In view of Article 6 of the existing agreement of Alliance, it was decided to address to the League of Nations a joint notification, to the effect that the Governments of Japan and Great Britain had been led to the conclusion that the Anglo-Japanese Agreement of July 13 (1911) although in harmony with the spirit of the Covenant of the League of Nations, was not entirely consistent with the letter of that Covenant, and that they accordingly recognised the principle that, if the said Agreement was to be continued after June, 1921, it must be in a form not inconsistent with the Covenant.

NOTIFICATION IS SENT

"Notification was conveyed in a note dated July 8, 1920. The principle which is to guide the Japanese government in revising the agreement is at present the subject of serious study, regard being paid to the articles of the League Covenant as declared in the joint notification, and to many important changes which have taken place in the aspect of affairs since the conclusion of the present Agreement.

"That this Agreement of Alliance has largely and distinctly contributed to the peace, stability and welfare of the entire Far East is fully realised by both nations, and not only is a continuance and preservation of the wholesome spirit of this Alliance for a long time to come desired by the most thoughtful among the two peoples, but it is, I am sure, in the high ideals of the League of Nations.

"Concerning the organization of the new Consortium, looking to financial aid to China, I had the privilege at the last session to state before you how a clear understanding was reached between the respective banking groups and governments concerned, and how the new organization was being taken shape. Last October, representatives of the various banking groups met in conference at New York, signed the final agreement, and discussed the policy of the Consortium and other details of practice, thus bringing to completion the organization of the Consortium.

PROGRAM OF MISSION

"While the activities of the Consortium in future are necessarily dependent upon negotiation and co-operation between the organization itself and the Chinese Government, it may not be out of place, now that the Consortium has been completed, to make a remark upon its mission.

"The object of the Consortium is purely economic. In other words what it aims at is to assist and facilitate the economic development of China, and thereby to contribute to the happiness and interest of the Chinese people on the one hand, and to afford equal opportunity for the private enterprises of the nations concerned on the other.

"At a time when the powers interested are thus joining their hands to promote the welfare of the Chinese people by avoiding needless competition among themselves, and by further strengthening their friendship and concert, it is a matter to be deeply deplored, especially by Japan, who, as her neighbor, is peculiarly interested, that the complete and peaceful unification of China is not yet in sight.

CONFLICTS IN NORTH

"Last summer when the political situation in China began to give signs of further complication, and later when things came to such a pass that the Northern part of China became involved in armed conflicts, the Japanese Government, besides early warning their officials and nationals in China to refrain from any acts or activities that might be regarded as taking part in political strife, published a declaration of their policy of scrupulous impartiality and attitude of strict fairness.

"The situation in China is now at the turning point, and the awakening of the people is indeed worthy of note. That the path of China is beset with difficulties should command the deep sympathy of the people and Government of Japan, while China's development is a thing very eagerly hoped for by Japan, who stands in such close relationship with her. Not only for China's sake alone but for the general welfare and peace of the world it is devoutly to be desired that China should speedily recover peace and unity.

"In reviewing conditions in the Far East and especially in China, I deeply regret to have to refer to a calamitous event which occurred at Hunchun last October. On the details of the event and the circumstances which constrained the Japanese Government to despatch troops both for self-defence and for the protection of Japanese residents, a public statement was made at the time.

ACTIVITIES OF TROOPS

"These Japanese troops have proved equal to the task expected of them, and the Chinese Government on the other hand, actuated by a spirit of co-operation, have been transferring suitable contingents to Chientao for the purpose of clearing the locality of outlaws and guarding against future disturbances.

"The Japanese Government therefore in pursuance of their declaration, have decided to withdraw these troops. At the same time, steps are now being taken with a view to a proper settlement of this unfortunate affair. It is also the Japanese Government's intention to provide fully, in co-operation with the Chinese Government, for the tranquility of the districts affected and for the protection of Japanese subjects.

"With the Czechoslovak troops withdrawn from Transbaikalia, the Japanese Government, consistently with their repeated declarations, withdrew their troops from that region.

"In districts around Vladivostok, whence a menace to the peace of Korea was still felt, and where the safety of many resident Japanese had to be provided for, and in Habarovsk, which is a point of strategic importance on the way to the province of Saghalien, we had to keep sufficient forces until such time as tranquility was restored in those regions. As soon as the situation around Habarovsk began to show a degree of stability, we withdrew our troops from that district in September last.

"The political situation in Eastern Siberia underwent various vicissitudes during the course of the last half year. There have been in existence since last spring four local Governments at Vladivostok and other centers.

"The time gradually became ripe during last autumn for the amalgamation of these local political bodies, until in November last what is called an 'Amalgamation Assembly' was held at Chita.

"This Assembly declared the independence of the Far Eastern Republic. Chita was chosen for the seat of the Central Government, and various political bodies were relegated to a position of local autonomy.

"It was also decided that a Constitutional Assembly should be held on January 25. As a result of this amalgamation, the provisional Government at Vladivostok turned its authority over to the Central Government about the middle of last December.

"The Government of the Far Eastern Republic claims to stand for an anti-communist democracy, and has declared itself in favor of friendly relationship with foreign countries, especially with its near neighbors. What the new Government may do in practice is for the future to reveal.

"The political stability of Russia in general is earnestly hoped for by Japan, as her good neighbor, while as for Siberia in particular, it is the keenest desire of the Japanese Government that this troubled area should be unified on a sound basis and be restored to complete order.

"The historic good relationship between Japan and the United States needs no reiteration at this time of day. The relations between the two nations however have today greatly increased both in closeness and importance from political, economic, social and various other points of view. It is true that this friendly relationship is not without an occasional mingling of unpleasantness. That is almost inevitable in the complexity of international relations.

"But I am firmly of opinion that fundamentally the relationship between Japan and America is as cordial as ever and that there are no insurmountable obstacles, such as might disturb the basic factors which govern that relationship. Moreover, I am happy to notice that, in recent years, the popular understanding between the two peoples has been greatly helped by the close and frequent contact of influential men of both countries. I desire to express my appreciation of the valuable efforts of these people, which I hope will not be allowed to slacken in the future.

"I have to dwell here on an unfortunate event which has occurred in our relations with the United States. Last November, at the time of the general election in the United States, the State of California passed, through initiative, an Alien Land Law. The contents of the law are now generally known, and need no explanation here.

"In a word, the new Land Law is cognate to the law of 1913, made more drastic and severe. That it is aimed at the Japanese and is unjust and discriminatory, cannot be denied. The regret which the Japanese Government expressed for the legislation of 1913 is therefore still more keenly entertained by them for this new legislation.

"This question of a land-law however is not one of today or yesterday. It has a long history and complex and delicate bearings. It is impossible to solve the problem from the standpoint of one side alone. Principally for these reasons, the difficulty arising between Japan and America from the legislation of 1913 has remained unsettled to this day.

"In dealing with this matter, therefore, the Japanese Government have, from the outset, exercised the closest care. Not only antecedent to the passage of the law did they take proper and well-advised steps, but, recognizing, from the higher standpoint of Japanese-American friendship and with ample regard for the close and important relation of interests between the two nations, the urgency of a final solution of the difficulties caused by such unfortunate and unpleasant events, they caused their representative to open discussion with the American authorities.

"A frank and free exchange of views has since been proceeding on the various points calling for examination and debate, though it is regretted that we are not yet in a position to publish the results of these discussions. It is the sincere desire of the Japanese Government that a solution compatible with the honor and interests of both countries may finally be arrived at."

PREMIER HARA SPEAKS

(Reuter's Pacific Service)
Tokio, January 22.—The Diet met today. The Premier, Mr. Hara, in the course of his opening speech, said:

"It need hardly be said that, consequent upon the Peace Conference of 1919, the responsibilities of our country have greatly increased as regards contribution to the peace of the world. Accordingly, the united efforts of the whole nation are more than ever required for the growth of the national resources and the enhancement of the national prestige.

And inasmuch as it is an undeniable fact that the external development of a country depends upon the growth of its national strength, the Government is conducting the affairs of State in accordance with this principle, so far as circumstances and the finances of the country permit.

GOOD TERMS PREVAIL

"As regards the country's foreign relations, I am happy to say that we are on good terms with all foreign countries. It is true that there are now, as at other times, some questions pending, such as the California and Chientao questions. In the case of the California question, however, the authorities concerned, both in America and Japan, are now engaged in the discussion of it in the most friendly spirit. The Government anticipate a satisfactory settlement.

"As regards the Chientao question, the despatch of our troops to that district is only a temporary measure, demanded by the necessity for self-defence in the presence of disturbing conditions, as evidenced in the act of those outlaws who had burnt our Consulate at Hunchun and killed or wounded our countrymen there.

"As soon as order and security in that district are assured, for which the Chinese Government are primarily responsible, these troops will of course be withdrawn, as was announced on the occasion of their despatch. In fact, with the exception of small detachments, these troops have already been withdrawn.

"Concerning other questions, the Government, actuated as they are by the most sincere desire further to improve existing friendly relations with foreign countries, are prepared to treat them equally with right and justice."

Consortium Doesn't Seek Advantages, Declaration Made By Big Banker

(Reuter's Service)
London, January 22.—At a dinner given in honor of Mr. Sidney Mayers, Peking representative of the British and Chinese Central Railway, Ltd., who is shortly returning to Peking, Sir Charles Addis, Manager of the Hongkong and Shanghai Banking Corporation, London, described the new Chinese Consortium as in effect an offer to help China out of her present difficulties and to co-operate with China with a view to establishing a strong, stable Central Government.

He emphasized that each Power in the Consortium had expressly disclaimed the intention of seeking any separate national advantages, while it was no part of the Consortium to interfere or restrict private enterprise. He declared that at present, the Consortium's policy was necessarily a railway policy.

Mr. Mayers pointed out, that the Consortium's ultimate aim, namely unification of all railways under one uniform system, would not be fulfilled until the Chinese Government had adopted the principles whereby new lines should be divested entirely of the character of concessions granted to any particular nationality and should be administered free of interference on the part of local authorities, while their surplus revenues should be devoted to the further development of a co-ordinated railway system.

American Woman's Club Notes

The paintings of Mme. Wu Ang-weng, were for the second time, exhibited at her home at 135 Rue des Peres to a large group of members of the Literary Department on Saturday afternoon. Benefits of the study of Chinese art during the past two years, was manifested in the quickened appreciation for the products of this gifted artist, and for the masterpieces from the brushes of Sung, Yuen, Ming and T'ang artists, which are among the possession of this house.

DAUGHTER OF PAINTER

Mme. Wu is the daughter of a notable painter, and her versatility and industry is remarkable. She achieves the distinction of being able to paint many subjects, human animals, flowers, birds, and landscape, and moreover of painting in many styles. The illustrated catalogue of her paintings shows on one page a copy of an original Wu Tao-tsu of the Tang dynasty; on another in the style of Chin Yung of the Ming. The scrolls of paintings were suspended in rotation from the walls, for the pleasure of the guests. Portfolios of smaller subjects, were shown upon long tables, the pictures in which show delicacy in drawing and exquisite coloring.

Mme. Wu's original conceptions were given spontaneous admiration, particularly the paintings of the Eighteen Provinces, which depict her ideas of these provinces, whether near or remote. Chekiang for instance was represented by a view of the Hangchow Bore as it advances. Two of the artists present remarked upon the fine quality of composition shown in this series. The guests were received at the door on behalf of the family by Mr. Chen Kuo-chuan, who happens to be in town with his daughter, Miss Chen Chong-hui.

Mme. Wu and her son welcomed the guests. Much ingenuity and persuasion was needed to induce the Tai-tai to be seated in the presence of such a body of guests. Tea was served and hospitality enjoyed, although Mme. Wu speaks no English, and but few of her visitors speak Chinese. For some, it was an introduction to the knowledge that warmth of cordiality rises superior to limitations of speech. A presentation of copies of the two catalogues of the paintings, was made in behalf of the family, by Mr. Chen, to the library of the department—books that will be valued and studied. Many of the guests were eager to avail themselves of copies and carried them away with satisfaction, when it was found they could be purchased.

Immense Cotton Crop In United States Is Cause Of Uneasiness

(Reuter's Service)

New York, Dec. 17 (by mail).—The final Government report, indicating a yield of 12,978,000 bales of cotton, or the largest production since the huge crop of 1914, was a severe blow to the hopes of the bulls this week. Although many persons claim that that amount of cotton will never be picked and there is reason to believe that this is at least partly true since it hardly pays to pick the low grade stuff at the present prices, the crop is still a big one and even reckoned at twelve million bales looks especially large as compared with a prospective consumption of ten million bales.

The report was followed by a moderate break in prices and subsequent rallies, the market on the whole showing a resistance that was remarkable under the circumstances. Reason for this is found chiefly in the belief that cotton should be bought at existing prices.

Looked at from a mere price standpoint, there seems merit in the idea, but the trouble with the market has been that outside conditions are yet far from favorable to a bull campaign in anything. Therefore, the outsiders who buy cotton on commission-house advice, after holding for a few days and finding no material improvement in the market, sell out to a new set of buyers who, in turn, do the same thing.

SOUTH FULL OF COTTON

Apart from the price, conservative people can find but little to justify purchases. The South is full of cotton, which came out on every barge. Europe is unable yet to finance purchases of raw material, and the public is apparently doing less Christmas shopping than usual.

Everyone seems to be waiting for something to happen. Some are expecting failures; others expect that the retailer will be forced to sacrifice his stocks after the New Year, as the mills and wholesalers have done, and are waiting for the break before buying. That the retailer is now an important obstacle to better business is generally agreed. Desires of limiting his losses by waiting for a good holiday trade which will not be particular about prices, he has persistently failed to stand his share of the burden, and the public is resentful.

A Cotton Exchange man visited a well-known hat store recently, and was asked $14 for a derby. Although well able to pay this price, he declared he would go bareheaded before he would submit to such extortion. This is only one example of what is going on in all lines, including textiles.

WAGE PROBLEM

At times the dry goods market appears to show improvement, but it does not last. Selling agents here declare that prices have already discounted a substantial wage reduction, and if mills are to participate in any business that develops they cannot hope to secure profits on the basis of high wages and limited working hours. Merchants say that the buying power of the country has broken to a very low level, and they do not see any sign of its early restoration.

Reports from the South-West say that in Oklahoma cotton is totting in the fields, and that six banks in as many cotton-growing districts have failed, largely owing to the inability of the farmers to pay their notes. A state official declares that from 50 to 60 percent of the State's cotton acreage has not been picked.

All this is having its effect on the movement, to reduce acreage next year, but a Southern bank president does not think the plan of having farmers sign pledges to reduce will be effective.

UP TO PLANTERS

In the last analysis of the matter, diversification seems to be the only logical means of controlling the cotton situation, and this must be carried out by the farmer himself. "He must seek to gauge his output more nearly to the needs of the community," says a trade paper on the subject. "He must protect himself by varying his crop and seeking to get the defensive strength which comes from diversification."

As an instance of the reduced business of New England Mills, it is found that the total receipts at five leading textile cities for the four months of the current cotton season ended November 30 were only 229,316 bales, or practically 130,000 bales short of those for the corresponding period of the previous season. This shows not only that the mills have bought very lightly throughout New England, but that there has only been a very small quantity of the new crop shipped into New England for storage, and that the stocks of the new cotton crop which can be offered for sale as spots are very small indeed.

The South is expecting great things from the newly organized Federal International Banking Co., which is intended to relieve conditions with respect to cotton and other Southern farm products by facilitating their export to foreign countries through credit arrangement. It is a Southern project financed largely by Southern banks, merchants and cotton interests.

KINGMAN & BROS.

How to Preserve the Teeth

In order to keep the teeth in a good condition scientific precaution must be taken. Through negligence, decay and numerous other affections such as tooth-ache, dental periodontitis, osteo-periostitis, necrosis of the jaw, etc., may arise. During the process of ingestion, there are settled on the teeth, some deposits of mineral and organic matters, called tartar, which possesses a morbid power of pressing the gum. As an inevitable result of the presence of this tartar, the teeth will become elongated and movable and will, by degrees, absorb away the enamel, leading ultimately to the decay and degeneration of the teeth. The tartar is so hard and resistant to the process of brushing that it cannot be scraped off except with dental instruments specially devised for that purpose.

Dr. KINGMAN offers to the public his service for preserving their teeth at an annual subscription Fee of $10.00 per head to be paid in advance.

The work to be done by Dr. KINGMAN to the subscribers consists in:

- (1) Cleaning of the teeth quarterly
- (2) Filling with gold platinum alloy only, when the teeth present holes.
- (3) Inspecting the teeth at any time at the desire of the subscribers.

FINAL ANNOUNCEMENT

of the

Tsin Dah (晉大莊)

and

Wei Dah (會大莊) Banks

The above-mentioned banks have duly paid all accounts due by them by allotment and instalment.

Several creditors, however, who should have claimed have not done so. We advertised in the fourth, eighth and ninth moons, in the Shun Pao, Sin Wan Pao, North China Daily News and in this paper, inviting the creditors to draw payment not later than the end of the ninth moon, otherwise they would lose their power to claim, and the funds would be turned over for benevolent purposes.

Our liquidating office has been established for years, and, as the end of the Chinese year is approaching, we have abolished it without further waiting, and the funds unclaimed by the creditors have been donated to benevolent causes in accordance with our previous meeting, in order that the matter may be concluded finally.

All notes and pass books remaining in the possession of Chinese or foreigners, are hereby declared to be null and void, and the public is hereby requested to note this final declaration.

NOTICE

Butcheries both in the International and French Settlements hereby jointly notify the Public: Shanghai Butchers usually purchase sheep and calves from the interior of China. In consequence of the recent famine and the high cost of food prices, labour and farm hands in the interior, the raising of cattle and sheep has become difficult, and therefore the supply of meat has decreased in comparison with that of previous years. The price of meat has risen to a much higher price than normal, say, an increase of about 5 to 6 cents per pound.

In spite of the difficulty and high cost of transportation of animals from the interior, and the high price of rice and other goods, Shanghai Butchers sell meat to their customers as cheaply as possible, with the intention of retaining their good connection with customers.

A meeting has been held by all Shanghai Butchers and a resolution passed that an increase or certain prices per pound shall be made on cash sales as well as contracted transactions.

We wish the public to understand that the increase in prices was decided upon only after the most careful consideration and only for necessity's sake.

The following Butchers in the International Settlement will come under the above resolution:

Yue-Shing, The Oxford Butchery, Cosmopolitan, Wei-Zee, Zang-Zoon, Teh-Fong, Yung-Fong, The Harbour, The Shanghai Butchers, Yung-Kee, Foh-Long, Zung-Zong, Ziang-Kee, Sun-Mow, Yung-Cheong, Woo-Mei, Yung-Woo, Yoo-Ting-Kee, Zee-Ab-Ja, Teen-Kee, Hop-Shing, Dong-Hing, Yuh-Fong, North-Hong-Kee, Teen-Tai, Yung-Tai-Poh, The Asia, San-Tai, and Shing-Mow.

The following Butchers in the French Settlement will come under the above resolution:

Zung-Shing-Kun-Kee, Yung-Sin, Sau-Woo, Zung-Shing-Hop Kee, Yung-Shing-Pau, Hong-Kee, and Dong-Hing.

Too Much Insurance :: By Ed Streeter

Author of the Famous "Dre Mable"
Letters

Dear son:—
The man who said life was cheap never talked to a life insurance agent. I just had mine insured for so much I feel selfish every time I live through the day.
The first week it was a glorious sensation. I had the feeling that if I got killed somebody had to pay dear for it, so I tested out the old car for speed, painted the roof of the barn, ate three helpings of pie, told Henry Peters he was a durned old fool, and cleaned up a lot of other odds and ends that's been on my mind for some time.

The trouble is, though, that after a while life insurance makes you suspicious. It seems to me that when I come downstairs in the mornins nowdays everybody asks me how I feel with kind of a hopeful expression. An if I say "Fine," they say "Good," an look depressed.

An if I say, "Not so well,"
they say, "Too bad," an crack jokes all durin breakfast. Or visa versa.

I sposed taint nothin but magination, but after all that's what most of life is. Up till about three weeks ago I looked at death in about the same way
I looked at the income tax. A Bullshetvikkyism an the high price of jewelry. They was all terrible things what happened to other people but not to me. But since talkin to Sam Adams, that insurance fellow from Milford, I can't pass Jim Bartlett's funeral parlors without peekin in the window, an to see a fello shovell makes me low spirited fer the rest of the day.

Sam's friends all say hes a "live wire." As near as I can figger a "live wire" is fello that you can't insult with anything short of a pair of brass knuckles.
He just walked in my office, put his hat in the scrap basket and asks have I have my life insured.
I says no, that I had enough expenses now what with educatin a son an other local charities.

Well, sir, Sam just collapsed into a chair an started drawing a plan of my home life when my funeral expenses was paid, providin there was enough left fer that. That man could have made the millenium sound like a calumny.
Before he got really warmed up he had you a cripple, your ma paralyzed, your little brother starvin, the cows all down the well, an the house morgaged.

Then he drew a picture of what would have happened if I'd had sense enough to take out some life insurance. Your ma was smilin an happy, your little brother was sittin on the floor playin with the canary, an the hired man was singin hymns while he split kindlin.

As I told Sam I seemed to come out the small end of the shoot no matter what I did. If I didn't take out no insurance they all cussed me, an if I did they all fergot I ever lived.

But when Sam told me how Pooch Frisbee an the Squire had taken out some I allowed I'd have to get in it just to keep them quiet.

"Do you want a straight life?"
says he.

I told him how I'd always lived one but I was open to argment.
Then Sam started to explain.

Insted of dividin folks up into Baptists, Unitarians an Congregationalists like ordinary folks would, he had em arranged into straight life, twenty years endowments, an forty payment plan.
All what didn't fall under one of these heads was a prospect. I guess thats about the same thing as an unbeliever.

"Straight life is the simplest," says he. "You pay so much a year every year accordin to how old you are, an every year you get somethin back accordin to the number of people what die, an that minus 'the amount paid divided by 3.1416 is the cash surrender value. Now the twenty year endowment is more complicated."

"Don't go into it," says I. "I can see by your explanation of a straight life tis the one fer me.
I wouldn't be happy with no other."

"Good," says he. "An now fer the doctor."

"What's he got to do with it?"
says I. "Now my life's insured I should think you'd want to keep me alive as long's you could."
"You aint insured yet," says
he. "Unless the doctor guarantees your're good fer fifty annual instalments we can't take you on.
There's many a man doin the outer edge round the grave an don't know it."

On the way over to Milford he told me a number of amusin anecdotes about cancers an tumors, so that when we got to Doct. Brady's I was glad to find him in.

The Doct. put a little telephone on my chest an listened, lookin more glum ever minit. Then he called Sam over in the corner an whispered to him til I like to have died.

"What's the matter?" I asks.

The Doct. shook his head.
"You got valves in your heart," says he. "An I can hear distinek stimmons of an aporia. Maybe you have a trachea fer all I can tell.
Do you fell sleep when you wake up in the mornins?"

I had to admit I did.

Find Fine Rembrandt In A German Cottage

Picture Pronounced By Experts To Be A Genuine
'Old Masterpiece'

Berlin, Dec. 15.—An interesting discovery has been made in a little half lost village in the Harz Mountains. In a house there a picture in oils of an aristocratic old gentleman has been hanging for many years. It was only a little while ago that the owner thought it might be of value, and made the discovery that the picture was by Rembrandt. Several experts say there can be no doubt that it is by the famous Dutch master.

The picture is painted on an octagonal piece of oak about two feet high by one and one-half feet wide. It still is in its beautiful original frame and one of the experts, Dr. Hotstede de Groot, declares that the frame must have been made at Rembrandt's special instructions out of Scotch fir. The work dates from the time of Rembrandt's stay in Leiden and probably was painted in 1630 or 1631. The initials R. H. L., which stand for Rembrandt Harmenoon Leiden, appear in a typical monogram above the shoulder. The discovery was made by Egon Mueller, a well-known art expert of Hamburg.

Why A Ship Sinks To Bottom Of Sea—Causes Earth To Take Elliptic Course Around Sun

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS
Eminent Astronomer and Authority on Subjects of Scientific Interest.

The following question is dated from a U. S. Naval Torpedo Station:

"If a ship or any piece of metal sank below the surface of the ocean would the depth to which it sank alter the buoyancy, or in other words would there be any certain depth at which it would be suspended between the surface and the bottom?"

It would sink to the bottom because the density of the material is greater than the density of water in the densest state in which it exists, even at the bottom of the sea. That is to say, a piece of any kind of metal is heavier than an equal volume of water, and continues to be heavier as it goes down, notwithstanding the very slight increase that the density, or relative weight, of the water experiences in consequence of the enormous pressure at great depths. The coefficient of compression of water, i. e., the decrease per unit volume, is only about one-twenty-thousandth for each increase of one atmosphere of pressure. At a depth of one mile this would produce an increase of only about one one-hundred-and-thirtieth in the density, or weight, of a cubic foot of water, although the pressure at that depth would be about a ton and a quarter to the square inch. It is not the absolute pressure of the water that prevents a body from sinking, but the relative weight of the water, bulk for bulk, to the weight of the body, at the same pressure, or at the same depth.

As long as a cubic foot or cubic inch of the water weighs more than a cubic foot or cubic inch of the submerged body the body will continue to sink. The only way to prevent this is by making the body hollow, so that it will displace a greater weight of water than would a solid body of the same material. The legend that sunken ships hover halfway down the ocean depths has no warranty. Such a thing might be if water were as compressible as air or if the oceans were a couple of hundred miles deep.

CAUSE OF EARTH'S COURSE

"Will you explain why, or what causes, the earth to take an elliptical course around the sun? Is it due to unequal attraction of the sun? When it starts to leave the circular course what prevents it continuing still farther off its course?"—W. S. Elmhurst, N. Y.

We are left largely to conjecture as to what originally set the earth in motion. The initial impulse is unknown and perhaps undiscoverable. But if we confine our attention to accounting for the paths which the earth or other bodies of the solar system now pursue there is no mathematical difficulty in the way.

The earth travels around the sun in an elliptical orbit because of the "initial moment" its velocity of motion with respect to the sun had a certain value with relation to the distance between them and to their combined attractive force, which velocity was less than the velocity that the attractive force of the sun would impart to a body falling from an infinite distance to the distance of the earth.

This latter velocity is called "the parabolic velocity" because if the earth had started moving with a velocity just equal to this particular velocity, it would have traveled not in an ellipse around the sun, but in a parabola, which would have carried it just once to a certain point of nearest approach to the sun, after which it would have passed away into space never to return.

If the earth, at the initial moment, had started moving at right angle to the direction of the sun, and with a velocity equal to the parabolic velocity multiplied by the square root of 2, it would have traveled not in an ellipse but in a circle. I say not in an ellipse because popularly an ellipse is supposed to have an elongated or oval form; but in reality a circle is simply a particular case of the ellipse.

If the earth, at the initial moment, had had a velocity greater than the parabolic velocity, then instead of travelling in an ellipse a circle, or parabola, it would have travelled in a hyperbola, and in that case, too, it would have simply paid its respects to the sun and then have turned its back upon him forever, going off to make other temporary acquaintances among the stars.

Nevertheless, the shape of the hyperbola is very different from that of the parabola. It is well to add that it is doubtful if a single case of a true parabolic orbit exists in the universe, because calculation shows that the chance of any planet starting with exactly the parabolic velocity is infinitely small. Comets are some-what of travelling in an elliptic orbits, but that is only a convenient fiction.

But, while an initial velocity less than the parabolic velocity imposes upon a planet the necessity of travelling in an elliptic orbit, yet the precise form and size of the ellipse depend upon the precise velocity, and the direction in which the initial motion is made with respect to the sun.

If this seems no answer to our question, don't be discouraged, but take up the fascinating study of elementary mathematical astronomy.

More Controversy
About Mars

At the last annual meeting of the Kentucky Academy of Science, Prof. Henry Meier of Center College set forth certain factors of the problem of signalling to Mars. In the first place, he said, the probably low temperature and rare atmosphere and the absence of water vapor (not, we would remark, universally admitted) are against the existence on the planet of beings endowed similarly to ourselves. Ability to signal by light is negated by the fact that the earth's atmosphere would absorb about 40 percent of the light sent out, and by the great distance. The author estimates that an area of light 10 miles square on earth seen from Mars through a telescope magnifying 500 times, would appear like an area 1 inch square, viewed at a distance of 500 feet. The possibility of signalling by radio is negated by the distance, it being computed that it would require a current of a million amperes at the sending station to obtain one of one ampere at a receiving station on Mars, when the planet is nearest the earth. Besides, the powerful currents radiated from the sun would probably overwhelm the weak waves sent out from the earth. While these objections are valid as far as they go, comments the Scientific American, we would suggest that the real crux of the problem is the extreme improbability that a race of beings sufficiently "human" to hold any sort of intercourse with us exists on another planet. Once assume their existence, and it is easy to conceive them so far advanced in scientific attainments as to be in no wise dependent upon "a telescope magnifying 500 times" to catch our signals.

The earth, at the initial moment, had started moving at right angle to the direction of the sun, and with a velocity equal to the parabolic velocity multiplied by the square root of 2, it would have travelled not in an ellipse but in a circle. I say not in an ellipse because popularly an ellipse is supposed to have an

Fever Present In Mental Disease

Dr. Bond in the Boston Medical Journal adds a new item to medical knowledge of mental disease. In seventy-one mental patients, fevers slight or severe, transitory or chronic, occurred in over 50 percent, a surprising result for consecutive cases. The diagnoses varied and showed that fever occurred in imbecility, epilepsy, arteriosclerosis, dementia praecox and manic depressive psychoses. Of nineteen manic depressive insanity patients, thirteen had fever and six did not. Of nineteen dementia praecox patients eight had fever and eleven did not, this being the only disease in which normal temperatures were found more often than the reverse.

World Agreement Is Urged On Question Of Disarmament

(U. S. Naval Radio through Reuter)
 Washington, Jan. 22.—Addressing the Naval Committee of the House of Representatives, Mr. Henry White, the former Peace Commissioner, expressed the view that the staggering burdens of taxation, resulting from the world war were causing the peoples of all nations to desire the formation of a world-agreement for disarmament.

He thought the world was crying out for some agreement, but he did not favor the United States being the only nation to disarm. He urged, however, that the United States should take the initiative in this movement, and that a conference should be held in America.

"RIO GRANDE"

"MY LIPS ARE FOR THE MAN I LOVE!"

So spoke Maria Inez, in whose veins ran the blood of an American mother and a Mexican father. Is it any wonder she hated fiercely and loved deeply? Is it any wonder that she allowed no mountains, no forests, no distance, no Rio Grande, to separate her from that blue-eyed Irish Gringo on the American shore? Here was a drama of fiery romance—of border adventure—colorful, speedy, heartful. So is the screen play.
